Dr. W. T. Hunnicutt Is Sent to Cascade Avenue Church; Rev. W. M. Barnett Also Changed.

By DR. THOMAS M., ELLIOTT. The North Georgia Methodist conference concluded its annual session yesterday afternoon at Wesley Memorial church with assignments for the coming year being read by Bishop J. L. Decell.

One hundred and twentyfour changes were made in the assignments as listed a year ago, in addition to many changes effected among the former Methodist Episcopal and former Methodist Protestant charges that now have become affiliated with the Southern Methodists in the united Methodist church.

Notable among the changes made in the Atlanta district were the transfers of Dr. W. T. Hunnicutt from Martha Brown Memorial to Cascade Avenue church, and of the Rev. W. M. Barnett from Haygood Memorial church to tht Augusta Trinity on the Hill church. Dr. L. B. Bridgers succeeds him at Haygood Memorial.

Epworth Church.

The Rev. J. H. Barton goes to the Epworth church, succeeding the Rev. Z. C. Hayes Jr., who is transferred to Carrollton. The Rev. H. S. Smith comes to the Martha Brown Memorial church, succeeding Dr. Hunnicutt.

Dr. E. N. Broyles is assigned to the Park Street church, succeeding the Rev. Irby Henderson, who goes to Dalton First church. Dr. Broyles is followed at Rome by the Rev. G. M. Acree. The Rev. C. A. Hall is appointed to the Atlanta St. John church, following the Rev. W. H. Clark, who goes to Winder.

Conference Cabinet.

Three new district superintendents were named by the conference cabinet. Dr. R. L. Russell was named district superintendent of the Griffin district, to succeed the Rev. W. M. Twiggs, who goes to West Point. The Rev. G. L. King was named district superintendent for the Griffin district, and is followed at Monroe by the Rev. C. M. Lipham. Dr. W. H. LaPrade is the new district suland, who is named pastor of the

Moscow Talks of 'Hostile Act' as Helsinki Declares That Demands on Nation Will Be Rejected

By WITT HANCOCK.

MOSCOW, Nov. 26.—(AP) Soviet Russia charged Finland with spilling the blood of Red soldiers on Soviet soil tonight and demanded that "concentrations" of Finnish troops be withdrawn "immediately" from the border north of Lenin-

A Russian note handed to the Finnish minister, Baron Aarno Yrjo-Koskinen, tonight was couched in ultimatum-like language, but it added that Russia was not inclined to "magnify this abominable act of attack on the part of Finnish troops, probably badly managed by the Finnish command."

However, withdrawal of the Finnish troops a distance of 12 to 16 miles from the border, as demanded by Russia, would mean Finland's abandonment of her frontier fortifications, and possibly the granting of one of Russia's most insistent demands in her long dispute with Finland over frontiers and naval bases. Report Officers Killed. The Russian note charged that Finnish artillery opened fire suddenly at 3:45 p. m. (6:45 a. m. Atlanta Time) on Russian troops stationed at the border village of Mainila, and killed four men, including a junior commander, and wounded nine men, including a junior commander and a junior lieutenant.

(Later a Finnish government spokesman described the Russian demand as a "friendly proposal" but said the soldiers would not be moved back.

(The spokesman pointed out that there was no time limit mentioned in the Russian demand, which he termed as "not an ultimatum." He said the government would frame a reply to the Soviet note.)

Rejection Predicted. (The United Press reported the Finnish government said that it will reject Soviet Russia's demand.

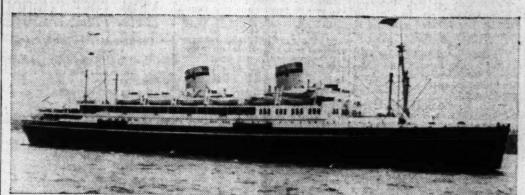

(Three shipping channels into the port of Helsinki were closed, presumably preparatory to mining, and all ships approaching by other channels were required to signal loudly.

(The Soviet fleet, including large numbers of submarines, was said in Estonian dispatches to be operating in extensive maneuvers in the Gulf of Finland off the Finnish coasts.)

It is to defeat our enemy, and by that I do not merely mean the defeat of the enemy's military forces; I mean the defeat of that aggressive, bullying mentality which seeks continually to dominate other peoples by force, which finds a brutal satisfaction in the persecution and torture of inoffensive citizens and, in the name of the interests of the state, justifies the repudiation of its own pledged word whenever it finds it

57 Entries Are Expected In 'Scarlett' Gown Contest

Eight Already Qualified THE REQUIREMENTS With the Costume Committee Here.

The quest for the Atlanta girl who will wear the gown of "Scarlett O'Hara" to the "Gone With the Wind" Charity Ball the night of December 14 went into the fifth day today with six unmarried Junior Leaguers and two members of the 1939-40 Debutantes' Club qualified as candidates. In addition to those who already have registered by sending their names and photographs to Mrs. DeSales Harrison, chairman of the Scarlett Dress Committee of the Junior League, 10 others have expressed intention of qualifying. ### Hey, Bud! Want a Job?

Columns of impressive statistics reveal that industrial activity is surging upward in the United States. Every graph, every analysis, indicates the upswing is well in motion, with probability that a good-sized boomlet, if not a full-sized boom, is under way.

And Bill, the fellow down the street who's been on relief for so long, has got a job.

In the steel towns the open hearths are roaring and the long snakes of white-hot metal are rushing through the rollers. Orders are piling up and the demand for scrap and ore is getting big.

And Bill, whose young'uns have gone hungry many a night, has got a job.

The railroads, swinging into the task of transporting the goods that busy mills and factories are turning out, hauling the raw materials and the coal those industries need, expect to make a fair profit the coming year. Railroad executives, who have faced a decade of red ink statistics on their annual balance sheets, are smiling once again.

And Bill, whose wife hadn't had a new dress in seven, eight years, has got a job.

A call has sounded across the nation for new factory plants and for new homes. The sound of the hammer and of the saw, of the riveting machine and the trowel, is heard all over the land. The builders are busy, construction figures are approaching new highs and the nation is being dotted with pleasant new homes and efficient new manufacturing plants.

And Bill, who hasn't driven a nail into a plank, for pay, for months, has got a job.

It may be the result of war orders. It may be something deeper, something of more permanent significance. But the truth is that, unless the totally unforeseen occurs, the depression seems to be, at last, definitely on the way out.

Official employment agencies report more applicants placed in permanent jobs and fewer people seeking work. Relief needs are shrinking and the national figures on unemployment are dropping, fast.

The people, at work once more, have more money to spend and the retail stores announce, month by month, larger sales. Old bills are being paid and shelves, not so long ago overstocked, are calling for new supplies of goods

The money turned loose in larger pay rolls is percolating into the nation's economic life and all, manufacturer, wholesaler, retailer, transporter, user, are benefiting alike.

And Bill, who had almost given up hope, has got a job.

That is the test, the final proof of all the complicated statistics and reports and observations and analyses. When Bill, the man you know as a good, but unfortunate, neighbor, at last gets the so-long-hoped-for job, you know the tide is turning. There is the proof, in your own neighborhood. 'Convincing, clinching and

Perhaps, now the upswing is well under way. all sorts of problems will be solved. Reducing demands for public relief will lower governmental expenditures. ### On U. S. Pay Rell

Latest reports from the Civil Service Commission disclose significant facts about the present day trend toward "working for the government." According to the commission, the United States now has more persons working for it than it had at the peak of World War activity. The upward movement began in 1933 and has been rising ever since.

A look at the figures is interesting. The government pay roll at the present time includes 939.876 workers. Of this number, 125,842 work in Washington. Civilian personnel of the War and Navy Departments comprise more than one-fourth of the workers in the entire federal establishment. The report revealed biggest gains recently in the departments in charge of national defense. For example, the War Department has increased its personnel by 28.6 per cent; the Navy, by 21.6 per cent.

What of the amount of this pay roll? In September, the pay of this army of federal employes totalled $141,629,881. A total of $22,204,-433 was paid to workers in Washington, and a total of $119.425.448 in the field. Approximately 57,000 are paid out of WPA funds, and approximately 882,500 are paid out of regular government funds. The average yearly salary is approximately $1,870 in the field, and $2,066 in Contrast with the past is revealing also. Before the World War less than 500,000 persons were regularly employed by Uncle Sam. War work swelled the ranks to 917,000. Following the war, the army of workers declined to 500 -000. It remained around that figure until the advent of the New Deal. Now, Uncle Sam is employer to more nieces and nephews than ever

He Was Bold, Anyway

The comment by Author Theodore Dreiser that woman's clubs are "a lot of baloney" quite naturally raises voices in defense of women's organizations and focuses attention on the constructive work and influence of these various groups. The eminent writer to the contrary notwithstanding, the good work carried on by women's organizations remains on the record. Dozens of groups-or rather, hundredscould be named whose activities are far from the frivolous and trivial category.

The National League of Women Voters is a splendid example, picking one organization at random. This organization was founded by Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt soon after the equal suffrage law was passed a scant 19 years ago. And, year by year, the League has grown in effectiveness, opening up for hundreds of women the opportunity for constructive participation in public affairs.

The principal purpose of the League is to foster good citizenship. It aims to gather nonpartisan facts about various candidates for election and the issues at stake in those elections, and to make these facts available to as many voters as possible. Individual candidates are never indorsed, but the League frequently takes a definite stand on important measures.

Its records include many accomplishments and the League has been a major factor in fostering many devices of better government. such as proportional representation, improvement of civil service and consumer protective legislation. There are 557 local groups in 31 states. Here is but one instance of a woman's se deeds make Dreiser's words merely ridiculous-or a good publicity stunt.

Books of the Year

That Americans are becoming more and more international-minded is noted at the 34th annual exhibit of New-Books-of-the-Year, now current in New York, which reveals that nearly three times as many books dealing with international problems were published this year

The exhibit is the only one of its kind in the United States. The display includes about 2,000 volumes, representing recent output of approximately 100 publishers. Here then is a genuine cross section of the public reading taste. While books of fiction still lead numerically, there are approximately 300 works devoted to the world scene. These represent many views and opinions and are classified under general headings of history, travel, politics, economics, sociology and sports. Another of the newer trends indicated by the exhibit is increased representation from the university presses. Publications are on display from such institutions as Yale, Princeton, Columbia, and the Universities of Pennsylvania, North Carolina and Minnesota.

Here is democracy at work-freedom of the press in all its glory.

MINE WARFARE A NEUTRALITY PROBLEM.

(From the Philadelphia Inquirer.) Efforts by the Germans to justify their mine warfare policy, declared by the British Governitside international law, appear an admission that drifting Nazi mines were respon sible for the sinking of more than a score of bel-ligerent and neutral ships in English waters during the last week. The Germans at first warmly denied authorship of the ruthless mine campaign.

If, as it appears, the purpose of the Germans is a counter-blockade so effective as to starve out Britain-even if it means the sinking of many neutral ships—the British reprisal in declaring contraband Germany's exports, by means of which the Nazis maintain foreign credits to get needed supplies, is understandable.

Naturally this retaliation by Britain is hard on the neutrals doing business with Germany. It is no wonder that Holland and Belgium, hard hit by the mine warfare, are making strong protests against the intensified Allied blockade.

But what can the neutrals do to avoid ship losses and possible involvement in hostilities, except by keeping out of war territory? It is a growing problem for all neutrals, particularly in view of the fact that drifting mines and wandering submarines widen materially the concept of designated combat zones.

THE CAPITAL PARADE BY JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

MAGNETIC MINES IMPROBABLE WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.
If the English talk is right about German "magnetic mines," American naval experts say that Hitler's scientists must have discovered a brand new kind of magnetism. The American experts prefer to attribute the recent tremendous shipping losses to heavy mine concentration caused by intensive German mine-laying by submarines, plus English miner blown loose in the last fortnight's bad storms.

A magnetic mine is so improbable because all magnetic force, so far as known, decreases in proportion to the square of the distance between magnet and attracted object. A magnet strong enough to pick up a pound of steel at one foot can pick up only four ounces at two feet and one ounce at four feet. Underwater or even floating mines sufficiently magnetized to be attracted to a vessel only a few feet away would almost require dynamite to separate them from original mine-layer.

While discounting the magnetic mine talk, American experts are inclined to believe that the Germans may have made some important improvement in mine design. They have no doubt as to the German ability to lay mines by submarine. The best German submersible are equipped with a mine-laying tube which can even be operated under water, thus escaping any ordinary anti-mine-layer patrol. The shipping lanes where most of the recent losses have been concentrated are so narrow and so crowded that comparatively small numbers of mines can have a great effect.

Finally, there is the already mentioned possibility that some of the mines may be English ones, recently storm-loosened. The Germans have claimed this, and the American experts are for once inclined to believe them in part. The truth is that the real experts are by no means so excited by the mine menace as the headlines would suggest they ought to be. Floating mines, they recall, were used in the final year or so of the last war, although everyone seems

TEAPOT TEMPEST One of the real rows of the next session will center round the Logan bill, to limit the authority and prescribe the procedure of the administrative agencies. Having lost their court battle against these agencies' enabling acts, the business lawyers are fighting hard to weaken them on the procedural side. Feeling is already running very high. At the last meeting of the Administrative Law Institute of the American Bar Association, the Securities and Exchange Commission named Chester Lane, general counsel and a strong opponent of the Logan bill, to appear at the round table on SEC problems. The institute refused to receive Lane, so there was no SEC round table, and William Dempsey, general counsel of the Federal Communications Commission, stayed away from institute meetings as a gesture of support for Lane. The fight is probably a teapot tempest, since the word is that the President veto the Logan bill if it should pass.

PAIN FOR HUGHES The new men on the Supreme Court are the chief reason why the lawyers are try-ing to attack the administrative agencies by congressional enactment. Two of them, Justice Hugo L. Black and William O. Douglas, recently caused some stir by dissenting from five court refusals to grant writs of certiorari, which give permission to bring cases before the court. Four of the cases involved suits by small stockholders or creditors against large companies. The fifth was a damage suit against a railroad by a child run over by a train.

Announced dissent from refusals to grant writs is almost un-ecedented. The best legal opinion is that the Douglas-Black dissents probably indicate a new policy being followed by these younger justices. Both are known to believe that the court should go out of its way, even to the point of straining the law a little, to give the fullest hearing to poor litigants. Both are also represented as thinking that the court should hear more cases. Their dissents must be painful to Chief Justice Charles E. Hughes, whose great desire is for the court to present a united, infallible front to the world. But, since the first Black-Douglas dissents, informed observers have been

SHORT FRIENDSHIP In politics, no friendship is indissoluble, no enmity enduring. When he was running for his seat, Senator Lister Hill, of Alabama, made friends with the utilities magnate, Wendell L. Willkie. Willkie, a civilized fellow, had no regard for Hill's opponent, former Senator Tom-Tom Heflin, and helped to call off some of Alabama's big business opposition to Hill. But now, Hill is attacking Willkie personally for obstructing

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

(Editor's Note: This is a continuaof Westbrook Pegler's series on the shakeup in Kansas City which led to the downfall of Tom Pendergast, political boss.)

KANSAS CITY. Piece of Graft interesting coinidence the Treasury intelligence unit, the men who comb the in-come tax returns, stumbled on the clue that was to wreck Tom Pendergast's machine and send him to prison just about the time he was receiving the greatest single chunk of graft that he collected in thieving career March, 1936, Pendergast got $250,-000 in currency for ordering his state superintendent of insurance to compromise in favor of a num er of fire insurance companies and to the detriment of the policyholders, a rate case involving the distribution of more than $9,000 .in sequestered premiums. Within a month the income tax men, inquiring about an item in the accounts of a Chicago law firm and with no interest whatever in Pendergast's affairs, picked up a lead that ruined him.

Up to this time the government's only interest in Pendergast, apart from the political and personal interest of the administration in a very effective producer, was that concerning the vote frauds in Kansas' City. Maurice Milligan, the district attorney, was nagging away at Pendergast's gang, but the boys were unconcerned, because hey had been assured that these offenses were not the business of any convictions, therefore, would be reversed. In the state courts they could pack the juries

But as Milligan Tracing Conspiracy crowded them around, obtaining convictions that did stick, the Treasury men were quietly tracing payments of big money and reconstructing the conspiracy which Pendergast robbed hundreds of thousands of little people in Missouri, the type of people who voted his way and kept him luxury, of small sums, amounting in all to millions of dollars. The income tax indictment was the one on which he was finally sent to prison, and although it is possible that he would have been nailed in the vote frauds, a guilty connection with that phase of his criminal life would have been very hard to prove. Moreover, the people of Kansas City were not very angry about the vote frauds. The insurance deal, however, showed them what a black-hearted, greedy old rascal he was by contrast with his popular reputation for open-handed generosity and kindness to the street-car type of citizen.

He not only took, all told, $315, 000 of their money in bribes from the insurance companies as share of their millions, but he in ordinate politican, a mere punk in the political scale, ... ert Emmett O'Malley, the inin the political scale, named Rob got only one year in prison, plus the disgrace and all, so he deserves no sympathy, but the operation goes to show that Pendergast had no thought of anybody himself. He was horse-crazy and money-crazy, he robbed his own cops and ward precinct workers of their paltry little pay, drove on irresistible passion for betting on the races.

While little people were paying their $6.40 or $22.60 to the internal revenue as income tax, he was holding out a tax of $432,170, most of it due on money stolen from the little people, and raising their taxes, boosting their water bills and handing them traffic tickets as the penalty for voting against him.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH McGILL,

PROFESSION OR TRADE? A gentleman who has spent most of his valuable life looking into the faces of Georgia boys and girls, seeking to put some learning into their shulls writer a portional party and the faces of t into their skulls, writes a pertinent note apropos the teachers' problems in Georgia. "Hughes Spalding was perfectly right when he said we were what we call the business world 'suckers.' The point is, however, that we have rather carefully trained ourselves to think that we are engaged in a profession and not in a trade. As you know that, traditionally, the difference is that the trade is always thinking of its rights, while the profession thinks of its responsibilities and standards. It would, it seems to me, be a pity if we have to begin to think of ourselves as in a trade."

This gentleman, who has reached the mellow and contemplative years of his life as a teacher, still is vigorous, still possesses many good years.

His viewpoint is interesting. Obviously, no teacher likes to think of his profession as a trade. Not that he has any criticism of a trade, but his profession is one which deals with the mind and not with machines or tools. His responsibilities, therefore, cannot be confined in a set of rules nor his opportunities directed by a foreman. The real teacher has never, in all the history of teaching, thought first of money but rather of responsibilities.

The politicians have cashed in on that very excellent trait. Thinking always of themselves and of their own political opportunities and advantages, they have had a friendly, if insincere, pat on the back for the teachers; have glorified them with high-sounding phrases—and left them to pick up the scraps from the state's financial table.

GEORGIA'S STATE DEBT Governor Rivers a short while ago took $400,000 of state highway funds and applied the amount on teachers' salaries. The surplus of the cigaret tax account also was used in this fashion, this being about $500,000.

Last week $2,652,000 in state highway bonds, authorized by constitutional amendment of last June, were signed. They already have been sold, the money being held until the bonds were pre-

As soon as the money arrives, there will, or may be, a show-down between the Governor and the State Highway Department. If the Governor seeks to use this money for the schools, there may be some fight raide by the Highway Department. That department has avoided a fight because it does not wish to be placed in an attitude of preventing the teachers from receiving their school

It is a little difficult to insist on paving a road when the children may not be able to ride over it to an open schoolhouse.

The point is, however, the state debt is piling up at a rapid rate.

The Highway Department already is due $2,150,000. This amount must be paid by April when its certificates of the sinking fund

The point further is, despite this transfer of funds, that there is a shortage of more than a million dollars in the current amou due the schools. Many of the schools in rural areas will close about the first of the year, many of the teachers and boards have reached a no pay-no-work agreement.

The teachers of the state are due more than $3,500,000 from last year but Georgia's "grandfather clause" nullified that debt and legally "swindled" the teachers. Only legislative action can re-

That, in brief, is the school problem in Georgia.

THE TEACHING PROFESSION The state debt of about $50,000,000 must be paid one of these days. It can be paid only by taxation. There has been no legislature with the courage to attack the problem. Without seeking to defend the Governor, any honest person must realize the state debt is the accumulated product of the past several administrations. Georgia's government is sick and has been for years.

No other department of the state has gone unpaid as have the achers. They will continue to be the official goat of political machinations until either they or the public do something about it. The teachers probably will answer it in their own way. As ny as can will leave the state and teach in those states where the teaching profession is given better treatment. Others will find their way into department stores, into offices and other jobs. There will be left those who are too old to get out, and those are incompetent. It is not a pretty picture.

It is a suicidal course, in the long view. The very democracy which makes it possible for legislators to run for office and to make loud and boisterous speeches, must come from the schools. It must be given root there. If it isn't, well, the time will come when one man will tell us what to do. We will be regimented in

That isn't a pretty picture. Nor is the selfishness of our public officials who permit the schools to be so degraded and the children of Georgia so neglected.

Permanent Heating Satisfaction," Says A. H. Rumbold, District Manager.

Well, winter is here-just about and these cold, nippy days and nights makes folks think of the cleanest and best and most economical way to heat their homes. If this is a matter that interests you, then get in touch with the Clow Gasteam Heating Company at 472 Peachtree street, N. E. There you will find A. H. Rumbold, district manager, and others connected with his house, glad to confer with you about the proper heating of your home.

As is well known, in winter nothing can contribute so much to the comfort and health of a home than the right kind of heating You owe it to your family, relieve them of the discomforts of oldfashioned make-shifts. This you can do with Clow Gasteam, that provides modern steam heat with gas at lowest cost.

Were There...

When Scarlett returned to Atlanta after the war, she found the city a mute recording of all that had gone before... and a splendid promise of that which was to come. For here and there between the scattered ruins and yawning holes, new buildings were springing up ... brave with fresh paint... symbolic of the spirited people who were destined to raise a new Atlanta from the ashes of the old.

It from an old shell-torn lamp which had survived the siege. To us, this lamp post ealls forth vivid memories of a new store and a brave people struggling through the bitter times of reconstruction. We were there then . . . working side by side with our fellow men to build Atlanta anew. And of this humble service we are very proud.

This old gas lamp post on the corner of Whitehall and Alabama Streets is one of 48 ordered by the Atlanta Council from Scotield's in Macon in 1855. It was first lighted on December 25 of that year, and is one of the surviving relics of Sherman's slege of Atlanta.

Wife's Duty Is To Steer Her Family Out of Rut of Boredom

Who Is To Blame When Lethargy Rules Home?

By Caroline Chatfield.

Among the many things that put married love to a slow and tor-turous death, boredom stands well at the top of the list. Day in and at the top of the list. Day in and day out going through the same dull routine; sitting three times a day at the meal table, looking across at the same face, opening and shutting, nothing coming out but threadbare comments on tiresome topics; getting up from the table and moving into the living room for a spell of reading and yawning and more desultory conversation about nothing in particular. This is the rut of boredom into which many a couple falls.

Whose fault is it? Why its the woman's fault and today when the presses hum and the air quivers with thrilling news and everybody that can write a grammatical sentence is turning out copy on hobbies, life, love and letters, no woman has any excuse for sitting her family down to a dull dinner table or dull tirestide section.

It's just as much a woman's business to provide entertainment for her husband and children as it is her husband's business to provide the cash and credit to run the home works. She's the one to the ball of conversation back forth and see that it doesn't fall dead on the floor.

She's the one to see that papa doesn't slump in glum silence and tell the family nothing of his daily doings. Granting that she's been hard at it all day and hasn't been, out of the house, she's read a paper, listened to a radio and if she's no better than a high-grade moron she can make cheerful conversation out But there are women who haven't the slightest conception of their obligation to keep themselves and their families out of the rut of boredom. For in-

"Miss Chatfield: Ten years of married life have convinced me that I should have remained single. In a short time boredom flew out. It is as though I went snipe hunting with my husband and was left with the bag. He comes home, eats his dinner, reads and goes to bed. Honestly I don't know what he's interested in, if anything, and I am bored with life, bored with myself and bored with him. We don't quarrel, you understand; maybe it would be better if we did. Is there any way to get out of this rut?"

Sister, can you play a makebelieve game? Then make be-lieve that you are earning your. board and keep as a profession-al entertainer. Forget about romance for the moment and think about your husband as a stranger (which he is according to your own statement) with whom you must make good, if you are to eat. So long as he's at home eating, reading, sleeping and boring you to tears you haven't getting fed up with boredom. en he does, look out! CAROLINE CHATFIELD...

The other day, in New York City, a most interesting woman, Miss Rachel Davis DuBois, came to see me. She, being a Quaker, decided twelve years ago that there was something wrong when children in her classes, because of their different racial and religious backgrounds, were made unhappy. She determined to find out how to correct adolescent persecution, and to foster understanding and appreciation among "the various cultural groups in the United States by showing how all the groups had helped to make our country what it is."

This first recognition of the Service Bureau for Intercultural Education has led to many things. Lately they have been asked by the board of education in New York City to introduce practical steps in the board's plan for teaching the children tolerance and

The United States Department of Education, with the co-operation of the Service Bureau for Intercultural Education, put on a most interesting radio series last winter called: "Americans All, Immigrants All," which won the annual award of the Women's National Radio Committee as the most original program for 1938-1939.

The play has a decided spiritual atmosphere suggestive of the ap-proaching Christmastime. The exquisite cello selections played by Enrico Leide during psychological moments will add musical background to the pleasing produc-tion. It was Mr. Carpenter's intention to stage the playlet in the springtime, but after discovering the latent talent in the aforementioned students, he rearranged his entire schedule so that others can enjoy the exceptional presenta-tion of "When the Sun Rises."

Georgia Tech Paces S. E. C. Elevens With 5 Wins, No Losses

There have been a few surprise packages in football this season. Cornell, for instance, has just won the lvy league title. The big Red team is the standout of the east.

But it wasn't to be Cornell before the season opened. They were talking of Prinnceton in the Ivy league and teams like Fordham, Carnegie Tech and Holy Cross as eastern powers.

Out in the southwest, Texas A. and M. was not rated as the team that it has turned out to be. The talk was of Texas Christian, S. M. U., Rice and Arkansas.

In the Southeastern conference, Georgia Tech has fooled everyone except the coaches. When one looked at the Tech schedule and then figured out what Tech had to shoot at one tough foe after another, it was figured Tech would do handsomely to win half the games.

Tech now has won six and lost two—by a total of four points—and will have a right to claim a portion of the conference championship if there's a victory over Georgia this Satur-

In Francis Wallace's annual Pigskin Preview for the Post, he devoted only one line to Tech. He said, in effect, that the Rambling Wreck would go along in its own peculiar way.

So the Jackets, perhaps, are the biggest surprise package of the year. Southern California's prowess on the coast, the might of Ohio State in the Big Ten, Missouri's rise in the Big Six and the performance of Tennessee and Tulane in the Southeastern conference generally was expected. Duquesne far outdid its advance Biggest disappointment of the year, perhaps, was Minnesota, with Notre Dame, now twice beaten, a close second. And Michigan's record, despite the victory over Ohio State, was nothing to crow about.

UNUSUAL BUT POSSIBLE.

It would be most unusual, but it is highly possible that three Southeastern conference teams may appear in the leading bowl games on January 1.

They're talking of Tennessee and Southern Cal in the Rose Bowl, Tulane and Texas A. and M. in the Sugar Bowl and Georgia Tech and Missouri in the Orange

It has happened once before, with Alabama playing California in the Rose Bowl, L. S. U. and Santa Clara in the Sugar Bowl and Auburn and Villanova playing in the Orange Bowl.

This speaks pretty well for the calibre of football layed down this way. In the Southern conference, both Duke and Clemson have fine records. Duke suffered a one-point defeat during the season, as did Clemson.

Duke hardly would listen to a bowl proposition if Wallace Wade had his way, but Clemson probably would be willing to play in one of them. Banks McFadden is an All-American back for Jess Neely's Tigers, while George McAfee, of Duke, has all it takes to land one of the backfield posts, too.

Clemson is all through the schedule, while Tech still has Georgia, Tennessee has Kentucky and Auburn, Texas A. and M. has Texas and Tulane has L. S. U. yet are due to see some most interesting football.

Whatever teams finally are selected, Bowl patrons

A clash between Tennessee and Southern Cal, for instance, would be a mighty spectacle, indeed. Tulane and A. and M. probably would be just as good, while there would be unlimited possibilities connected with a meeting of, say, Tech and Missouri's Christman.

PACKED HOUSE SATURDAY.

Spectators will have room to breath, but little more, when Tech and Georgia meet Saturday at Grant Field. The game is virtually a sell-out now.

And it probably will be one of the best games of the year. There hardly will be a repetition of last year's scoreless tie at Sanford stadium.

It was just through sheer had luck Georgia didn't score the first touchdown in the Auburn game. That 79-yard march was a spectacular thing.

Georgia mistakes have cost all the games lost this year, except the Holy Cross game. The Bulldogs have tried mighty hard.

Tech is a clear favorite again, but they'll have to reckon with a keen Georgia spirit. There are few teams around that fight any harder than do Coach Butts' Bulldogs.

The Jackets have a world of deception and an edge in the line, provided the cripples return. But Georgia is a real threat to almost any team when Jim Fordham, Cliff Kimsey and Heyward Allen are operating in form.

They shoot the works in the Tech-Georgia game, the boys That's the season's four-star final and often the underdog comes up with a sensational performance and punctures the Tech was the favorite last year and played around the Georgia goal line a lot of the time, but never could get across the double stripes.

It wouldn't be surprising Saturday, however, to see a bit of scoring on both sides.

"When they see a car drive up with a strange license tag, they demand to know the identity of the person and the business he has there.

"You see, so many football players have been taken out of the mining districts that it has caused a shortage of labor," he solemnly asserted.

It may not be as bad as the scout reported, but if one will scan the roster of a lot of schools, you'll find the mining districts rather liberally represented.

Five Loop Games Now Remain; Blanket Finish Is Seen.

By KENNETH GREGORY.

Georgia Tech's high-stepping Engineers and Tulane's thundering Green Wave had cleared additional football barriers today to remain undefeated and untied in Southeastern conference ranks along with the idle Tennessee Volunteers.

At the head of the procession following the last big Saturday of gridiron fisticutfs was Bill Alexander's Georgia Tech crew, 21 to 7 conqueror of Florida's 'Gators. That victory was Tech's fifth of Lie campaign.

With the regulars taking a de-served rest from a bruising sched-ule, Tulane's Greenie reserves ran all over the lot to score 13 points in each period and hand Sewanee's under-manned Tigers a 52-0 reverse in the last game of the season for the Tennessee grid-

EVEN WITH VOLS.

The Tulane triumph pulled the reen Wave even with Tennessee Green Wave even with Tennessin in the books, each having won four in the books, each having won four games from conference combatants. Tulane and Georgia Tech each have one game remaining, the Greenies meeting Louisiana State and the Engineers tackling Géorgia Saturday. Tennessee has two tilts left, Kentucky Thursday and Auburn on December 9.

In two ancient rivalries, the Auburn Plainsmen and Mississippi State Marroons conquered tra-ditional foes. Allyn McKeen's Mississippi State team won an 18-to-6 verdict over Mississippi's Rebels in a somewhat surprising decision. Auburn capitalized on "breaks" and got a 7-to-0 win over Georgia's Bulldogs.

Georgia Tech turned loose a corps of fleet-footed backs who handle the ball like magicians, to overpower Florida. After Tech converted a fumble into a touchdown, Florida quickly countered on a 24-yard pass from Tommy Harrison to Forest Ferguson and the latter lateraled to guard Mush Battista for the score. But Tech came right back to add two touchdowns in the second frame and

CLOSES SEASON. The Mississippi-Mississippi State game closed the season for those clubs. After battling for three periods with the count tied, the Maroons crashed through for a pair of touchdowns in the last quarter for the decisive margin and the championship of Mississippi. Auburn and Georgia played their usual close combat at Columbus, with the outcome in doubt most of the way. Georgia marched 79 yards to Auburn's one-yard stripe for a major threat, but a gallant goal-line stand by the Plainsmen stood off the thrusts and Georgia lost the ball on a fourth-down fumble. Auburn scored in the third period from the Georgia 37 after recovering a fumble. Five conference games remain on the program. On Thursday, with the customary Thanksgiving Day being observed, Tennessee meets Kentucky at Lexington, Auburn dedicates a new stadium at Auburn with Florida as guest and Vanderbilt and Alabama tangle at Nashville in an old rivalry. On Saturday, Georgia Tech meets Georgia at Atlanta and Tulane clashes with an ancient enemy at New Orleans, Louisiana State.

Southern California athletic officials, naturally enough, are eloquently silent on the subject because they don't know yet whether the Trojans will be in the game themselves. The men of Troy, impressive in their 20-12 victory over Notre Dame at South Bend, Ind., Saturday, must brush aside Washington and U. C. L. A. before southern California followers. however, possess little reticence on the subject. They tell you they want Tennessee for the game and insist the Trojan players want to meet the Vols.

They point out that the Vols missed out on the bid a year ago only because of Tennessee's December game with Mississippi and that this year only a sethack at that this year only a setback at the hands of Kentucky or Auburn can prevent Tennessee from getting the invitation—that is, if the Trojans are doing the inviting.

The reports that Tennessee has the inside track for the bid if Southern California is the host multiplied Saturday when it was learned that Major Bob Neyland. Tennessee coach, was on hand to see the Trojans run and pass to victory over the Irish. The dis-creet major left immediately after the game for the South to conclude preparations for the Vols' test with Kentucky.

Tennessee has never been to the Rose Bowl and has never played Southern California or any other West Coast eleven in the school's

The Trojans have won six games and tied one while Tennes-see, criticized for its weak sched-ule, has won eight straight games this season, and has not lost or tied a game since mid-November,

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 26.
(P)—The Yale football team, tongue-lashed by Coach Ducky Pond only three weeks ago as "the worst I've ever coached," was the toast of the campus today, the sins of the past wiped out by a 20-7 victory over Harvard.

The upset triumph gave the Elis a season's record of three wins, four defeats and one tie—nothing to cheer about in most leagues.

But they're funny that way here win as many other games on the schedule as possible, but the sea-son's climaxer with Harvard is the only one that really counts.

Pond was pleased at his team's reversal of form at Cambridge Saturday as the man whose mongrel pup turned out to be a bluewinner.

"There's no question about it," said the affable Ducky. "The Harvard victory was distinctly a team effort. It would be hard to pick out any one man and say he out-shone the rest of the boys. "We had a tough schedule of eight major games and, mainly be-cause of insufficient replacements, the team began to sag against Michigan and hit the bottom against Dartmouth. Since they've been on the way up. They looked great yesterday.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY.

Florida students' faces would be a bit on the rosy side if they knew their actions before Saturday's game in Gainesville had a lot to do with snapping Tech out of a bad case of mental doldrums.

As the Jackets trotted on the field for their warm-up exercises, the 'Gator student section let up a good-natured yell, jibing the Jackets with such uncomplimentary phrases as "Alligator Bait."
